

ALBERT L. JOHNSON FATALLY WOUNDED

City Clerk Accidentally Shoots Self
While Cleaning Shot Gun—Death
Comes Within Two Hours.

INFANT DAUGHTER IN ROOM

Dying Man Feebly Whispers that He Did not Know that the Weapon Contained a Shell.

Albert L. Johnson, for two years city clerk, died at 11:35 o'clock this morning as the result of an abdominal wound which he sustained about 10:15 o'clock when a shot gun which he was cleaning was accidentally discharged. The accident took place at his home on Booth street. When the physicians first examined him they gave no hope for his recovery.

Johnson was removed to the Schneek Memorial Hospital and placed under an anesthetic preparatory to an operation which was decided upon as the last resort to save his life. He did not regain consciousness. Before he was removed from his home he was asked how the accident happened, and he whispered that "I didn't know it was loaded." He was too weak to explain the exact manner in which the gun was discharged. At the hospital while he was on the operating table he again whispered that he did not know that the weapon was loaded. He was unable to explain how he came to have the gun in his hands.

Direct information as to the details of the accident is lacking as only Johnson and his little daughter, a few months past one year of age, were in the room at the time. He had been on the floor playing with the babe and it is supposed that later he got the shot gun to clean it. The loaded weapon was discharged a few inches from his body. The entire load entered his abdomen, tearing a gaping wound. Mrs. Johnson was in an adjoining room engaged in routine household duties when she was startled by the report of the gun. Upon entering the room where her husband was entertaining the child she saw him fall over on the floor. The babe was standing near his head weeping. Mrs. Johnson ran to a neighbor's residence and telephoned for a physician. In a few minutes two responded and both pronounced Johnson's condition critical and advised that he be removed to the Schneek Memorial Hospital where every attention possible could be given him. The wounded man was taken to the hospital in Voss' ambulance and immediately after he was taken to the operating room the physicians began to work heroically in an effort to save his life.

Johnson was an experienced hunter and fisherman and a surprising feature of the accident is that he would have a loaded gun at his home. His friends who have hunted with him say that he was always very careful and that he prided himself upon the manner in which he handled the weapon. It is presumed, however, that the shell was carelessly left in the gun after the close of the hunting season and that Johnson had forgotten about it when he started to clean the weapon. The gun was found under the bed where it had probably been thrown by the rebound.

Albert L. Johnson was forty-two years of age and came to this city twelve years ago from Dayton, O., to accept a position with Leroy Miller, as a decorator. He was a splendid workman and was trustworthy. He was congenial and well met and soon formed a large circle of acquaintances here.

Two years ago he made the race for city clerk on the Republican ticket and was elected by a substantial majority. Since that time and for two years previous to his election he was interested in Republican political affairs in this city and county and had a wide acquaintance which was gained through the various meetings and conventions which he attended.

Mr. Johnson was a competent clerk. Only recently he was complimented in open council meeting by Councilman C. H. Ahlbrand for the efficient manner in which he looked after the duties falling on that official. The recent report of the field examiners found the records in the clerk's office in excellent condition and a complimentary report was filed a few days ago with Mayor John A. Ross by the department. His books and records balanced to the hour each afternoon when the offices closed. C. W. Burkart, of the treasurer's office, today said that the books of the city clerk were in excellent condition and that he had reason to feel proud of the manner in which he kept them.

The last official act of Mr. Johnson was performed Monday afternoon when he signed the warrants for the various city employes in payment of their semi-monthly salaries. At that time he was in his usual happy spirits and had a pleasant word for each of his fellow employes when they called at the treasurer's office across the hall for their checks.

Mr. Johnson was a member of the local aerie of Eagles.

The news of the accident spread rapidly throughout the city and his many friends made earnest endeavor upon hearing the report to ascertain his condition. The news of his fatal accident and his untimely death was a severe shock to his acquaintances. He is survived by a widow and one daughter and one step-son, Harry McBride.

MICHAEL PRICE PASSES AWAY AT ADVANCED AGE

Well Known Resident of This City
Dies at His Home on Blish Street
—Funeral Wednesday.

Michael Price, for many years a resident of this city, died at 12:10 o'clock this morning on his home on Blish street at the age of eighty-two years, two months and ten days. He was born in Alsace, then a province of France, on December 26, 1833. Alsace is one of the provinces which have been taken by Germany and is now a part of the German Empire.

Mr. Price was the son of Mr. and Mrs. John G. Price who with their three sons immigrated to the United States in 1835. They came at once to Ripley County, Indiana. Mr. Price was married March 10, 1857, to Miss Matilda Voss. In 1870 they moved to this city where he had lived continuously until his death. Mr. and Mrs. Price were the parents of nine children. Three sons and two daughters are dead. He is survived by four sons, Henry, of Brownstown, Edward, of this city, George, of Los Angeles, Cal., and John, of Indianapolis. Mrs. Price has been dead a number of years.

Mr. Price engaged in the timber business practically all his life. For many years he followed this business in this locality. Several years ago he was injured when a log fell on him and since that time his health was not the best. During the last few weeks he had been failing rapidly but was not confined to his bed until three days ago.

The funeral will occur Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock from the residence on Blish street. Burial at Riverview cemetery.

MAYOR HAS POWER TO NAME SUCCESSOR TO JOHNSON

Law Provides, However, That the Appointment Must be Approved by Majority of Council.

The untimely death of Albert L. Johnson, city clerk, imposes the duty upon Mayor Ross of appointing a successor to fill the unexpired term of two years. Nothing will be done for several days, it is announced, towards naming a successor and in the meantime Mayor Ross has requested C. W. Burkart, of the treasurer's office, to look after the business of the clerk's office.

City Attorney Kasting today anticipated inquiries concerning the naming of a successor, looked up the law on the question and found that the mayor is empowered to appoint a successor who must be approved by the council. The latter requirement means that the councilmen will likely be consulted in the matter before any action is taken.

NOON DAY BLAZE DESTROYS BIG BARN

Five Head of Livestock Lost in Fire
which Levels Barn of Fred Meyer, Near Waymansville.

ORIGIN OF FIRE UNKNOWN

Several Head of Cattle Rescued, but are in Such Condition They May Have to be Killed.

A disastrous fire, the origin of which has not been determined, destroyed the large barn on the farm of Fred L. Meyer, near Waymansville, yesterday afternoon. Besides the structure, which was a total loss, a large quantity of hay and feed, five head of livestock, several sets of harness and other equipment were consumed.

The fire was discovered shortly after noon by Mrs. Meyer. Mr. Meyer and his farm employes had been in the woods some distance away cutting timber, and before they could reach the barn the flames had gained such headway that there was no chance of saving the structure, and a strenuous effort was made to get the livestock out of the burning barn. They succeeded in getting all of the cattle out of the barn with the exception of one cow, two calves and two lambs, which were lost. It was stated this morning, however, that many of the cows which were rescued from the fire were so badly scorched and otherwise injured by the flames that it may be necessary to kill them.

Owing to the hay and the dry timbers in the barn the fire raged fiercely and in a few moments after it was first discovered by Mrs. Meyer was a mass of flames. Mr. Meyer and his neighbors are at a loss to account for the origin of the blaze, as no one was supposed to be around or near the barn during the forenoon.

The exact amount of the loss had not been determined today. There was some insurance, but not enough to cover the loss, it was stated.

SON OF W. H. RIGHTS ESCAPED WHEN "FRAT" HOUSE BURNED

Purdue Student Telephoned Father
That He Was Uninjured But Did Not Save Any Clothing.

Eugene Rights, son of City Engineer W. H. Rights, was one of the Purdue University students who had narrow escapes Monday night when the Sigma Phi Epsilon fraternity house at Lafayette was totally destroyed by fire. Rights is a member of the Purdue Chapter of the fraternity and was rooming at the house with twenty-three other boys.

Mr. Rights was aroused from his slumbers at 5 o'clock this morning by long distance telephone call from his son. The young man said the house was burned to the ground and that the boys who were sleeping on the third floor escaped uninjured but were not able to save any of their clothing. Young Rights succeeded in getting his bathrobe during the height of the excitement and said that he was protected from the cold better than some of his fraternity brothers. The escape was made on a fire escape which was recently constructed. The loss on the house was $10,000 without insurance.

The Fashion store, 8 South Chestnut street, until recently operated by I. Benjamin, is to be reopened Saturday, February 19, under the management of Messrs. Caplin and Berger. The store name will be retained, the store to be known as The Fashion Cloak and Suit Company. A full line of ladies' ready-to-wear goods will be carried. Mr. Caplin is a member of the firm of Caplin Brothers, one of the leading ladies' tailoring firms of St. Louis. He will give his personal attention to the fitting of garments purchased at the store.

Mr. Berger is identified with one of the large eastern wholesale houses. Both Mr. Caplin and Mr. Berger have moved their families here and will make Seymour their home.

WORKS BOARD WILL NOT MEET TONIGHT

Regular Session is Postponed by Chairman Rockstroh in Respect to Late City Clerk.

SERVED AS CLERK OF BOARD

Affairs of the Office will be Looked After by Treasurer's Department for Several Days.

Out of respect for the late Albert L. Johnson, the city clerk, the board of works meeting which was to have been held tonight has been postponed. This announcement was made this afternoon by Chairman Rockstroh.

It is the duty of the city clerk to attend the meetings of the board of works and Mr. Johnson was present at his post with marked regularity. On several occasions he has attended council meetings and sessions of the works board when he was ill. He was an efficient official and his records are in splendid condition. During his term of office he has made a number of improvements as the result of which ordinances which have been passed by previous councils can be found more easily.

Several important questions are pending before the board of works and will be taken up at the meeting to be held in several days. Chairman Rockstroh did not know when the meeting will be called and it is possible that the council meeting Thursday may be postponed.

Although nothing definite has been stated by any of the councilmen today it is expected that the city engineer's question will be one of the questions which will be thrashed out. The majority of the councilmen feel that the attitude of the council for the future should be determined now so that any work which may come before the engineer's department during the spring months will receive prompt and proper attention.

Up to this time the council has played a "waiting" game in the matter, expecting that the case in the circuit court would be decided long before this time and that there would be no necessity for the council taking a stand for either contestant. However, the case in circuit court has been dragging along for several months with no prospect of immediate settlement and the council feels that the time is near when some action will have to be taken. The councilmen have not referred to either contestant in ordering work done by the engineer's department.

The contracts for the removal of ashes and garbage will expire the last of this month and the board of works will likely give attention to this at the next meeting. Two years ago the contract for hauling away the ashes and refuse was awarded following the advertisement for bids. Last year, however, no specific contract was entered into and the parties who had done the work the year previous were allowed to continue with the understanding that they would receive a certain amount each year.

Some of the councilmen believe that a better contract can be entered into if it is drawn up to include both garbage and ashes. Others, however, are of the opinion that it is more satisfactory to divide the contract. A number of bidders would like to get the work for next year. Some of them are anxious to bid on the removal of both ashes and garbage and others desire to file separate bids.

Several other matters pertaining to street work of the street department will be considered.

TRADEGY AT MARTINSVILLE

Assailant Was Brought to Sanitarium There and Escaped During The Night.

By United Press.
Martinsville, Ind., February 15.—Porter Bond, 35, said to be temporarily demented today shot and killed Harley Gray, 27, and Melvin Hubble, 27, at the traction station here. All the men came from Coal City. The two victims were Bond's attendants.

Gray and Hubble had brought Bond to a sanitarium here for treatment but Bond escaped during the night. Early today he bought a revolver and began looking for his attendants. His delusion was that they were seeking to poison him. While Hubble was laying on the ground bleeding from one wound, he pleaded with Bond not to kill him but he fired another shot. Bond fired five shots, all of which took effect.

The Morgan county grand jury was immediately called in session to investigate Bond's case.

Bond was a buyer for a poultry house. Gray was a clerk and Hubble was manager of the poultry house which employed Bond. The three had been close friends. Gray and Hubble were unmarried, Bond is married but for several years has been separated from his wife.

BULL PUP'S BARKING SAVES FRATERNITY MEN FROM FIRE

Purdue Chapter House of Sigma Phi Epsilon Totally Destroyed at Loss of $10,000.

By United Press.
Lafayette, Ind., February 15.—The barking of Bob, the pet Boston bull pup of the Sigma Phi Epsilon frat house saved the lives of twenty-four members of the Purdue University chapter early today when the house was burned to the ground with a $10,000 loss. The fraternity men who were sleeping on the third floor barely escaped as it was and were unable to save even their clothing. Bob who was on a lower floor was surrounded by flames but was rescued uninjured.

When the students were awakened the two lower floors were fire swept and they reached safety via a newly constructed fire escape. F. L. Shade, student, of Lafayette, was overcome by smoke.

The building, owned by Mrs. E. H. Krone, of this city, was entirely destroyed and was uninsured. It was one of the handsomest fraternity houses in this city.

NEW YORK REPUBLICANS SOUND NATIONAL KEYNOTE

dress as Temporary Chairman of Convention.

By United Press.
New York, February 15.—The keynote of Republican national principles in the presidential campaign this year was expected to be sounded in the state platform to be adopted by New York republicans in state convention at Carnegie Hall here today. The so called Big Four delegates to the National republican convention in Chicago are to be named today and ratified at the April 4th primaries. Elihu Root opened the convention as temporary chairman. Senator Wadsworth and Governor Whitman have been mentioned as possible delegates at large. Root and William Berri, of Brooklyn and David Jayne Hill of Rochester have also been mentioned as possible delegates. William Barnes, of Albany has declined to be a delegate. The delegation is expected to Chicago uninstructed. The action today is expected to Governor Whitman's statement.

TELLS OF LEAVING
L-19 CREW TO DIE

British Skipper Refused to Res-

OUTNUMBERED THREE TO ONE

Feared That if He Took the Thirty Members of Zeppelin Aboard They Would Seize Vessel—Another Story
of Fight With Submarine in Mediterranean.

The London Daily Mail publishes
the narrative of William Martin, skipper of the trawler which found the sinking Zeppelin L-19. Captain Martin says that when the trawler approached the Zeppelin's commander
offered him $25 if he would send a boat.

"He was a gentleman and behaved
as one. He was nice and polite. He spoke good English too. I thought a bit and then said:

"Well, if there wasn't so many of you I would take you off, but there's too many."

"The officer straightened himself up
and said:

"There is nothing in that."

"I thought again and said:

"But suppose we take you and you
sling us overboard and navigate the trawler to Germany. That will be another decoration for you, but it won't be much for us."

"He said, 'I pledge you my word we will not do anything of the kind.'

"He took his dying oath he would not interfere with us and I could have plenty of money if I saved him."

"I took another thought. They were thirty, and we were nine. They were armed, and we had not as much as a pistol aboard, and I would not take the risk. If there had been another ship standing by to help me I could have chanced it, but there was nothing in sight."

"I ought to tell you that I could see
three iron crosses painted on the Zep-
two on one side and one underneath
the wooden nose, which was tilted up.
I suppose they were for some daring
deed, and I did not want me and my crew to be part of a fourth."

"As we drew away some of the German crew at first shouted 'Mercy!
Mercy! Save us!' and then shook their fists at us as they saw it was no use."

"In peace times of course I would have had all the Germans aboard in two ticks."

Another Tale of the Sea.

Captain Hughes of the British steamer Woodfield, which made a game
three hours' fight against a German submarine in the Mediterranean sea
before it finally surrendered with eight killed and fourteen wounded, has told
the story of his fight.

The Woodfield was voyaging from Avonmouth to the Levant under sealed orders. She carried an army service corps besides her crew and a government cargo. The steamer was sunk
forty miles east of Gibraltar.

Submarine Finds Range.

"About 7 in the morning," said the captain, who was himself wounded in the fight, "a German submarine appeared, powerfully armed and not showing any number. She opened fire. Her first shot fell short. Her second went over us. Then she found the range, and a succession of shells struck us. Our gun was manned, but it was entirely outanged, and the submarine kept clear, although if she had come nearer we could have sunk her."

"This fight continued for three hours,
the submarine all the time keeping out of range, while we tried to make Gibraltar. We found it impossible to maintain full speed, as the Arab firemen quit the stokehold and rushed to the decks, adding to the difficulties."

"After three hours I realized that escape was hopeless. Already eight were killed and fourteen wounded, seven of the dead and eight of the injured being soldiers. Once in the struggle, too, the British ensign had been shot away. It was quickly replaced by the sailors."

"When I found that the shells had made a number of bad holes in the ship and she was sinking fast I ordered the boats to be lowered. All the survivors got away in four boats, with the exception of two gunners and myself. We left the Woodfield last on a small raft. Finding that this would not support us and one gunner being badly wounded, I jumped off to swim
to one of the lifeboats. It was then for the first time that I felt my wounds."

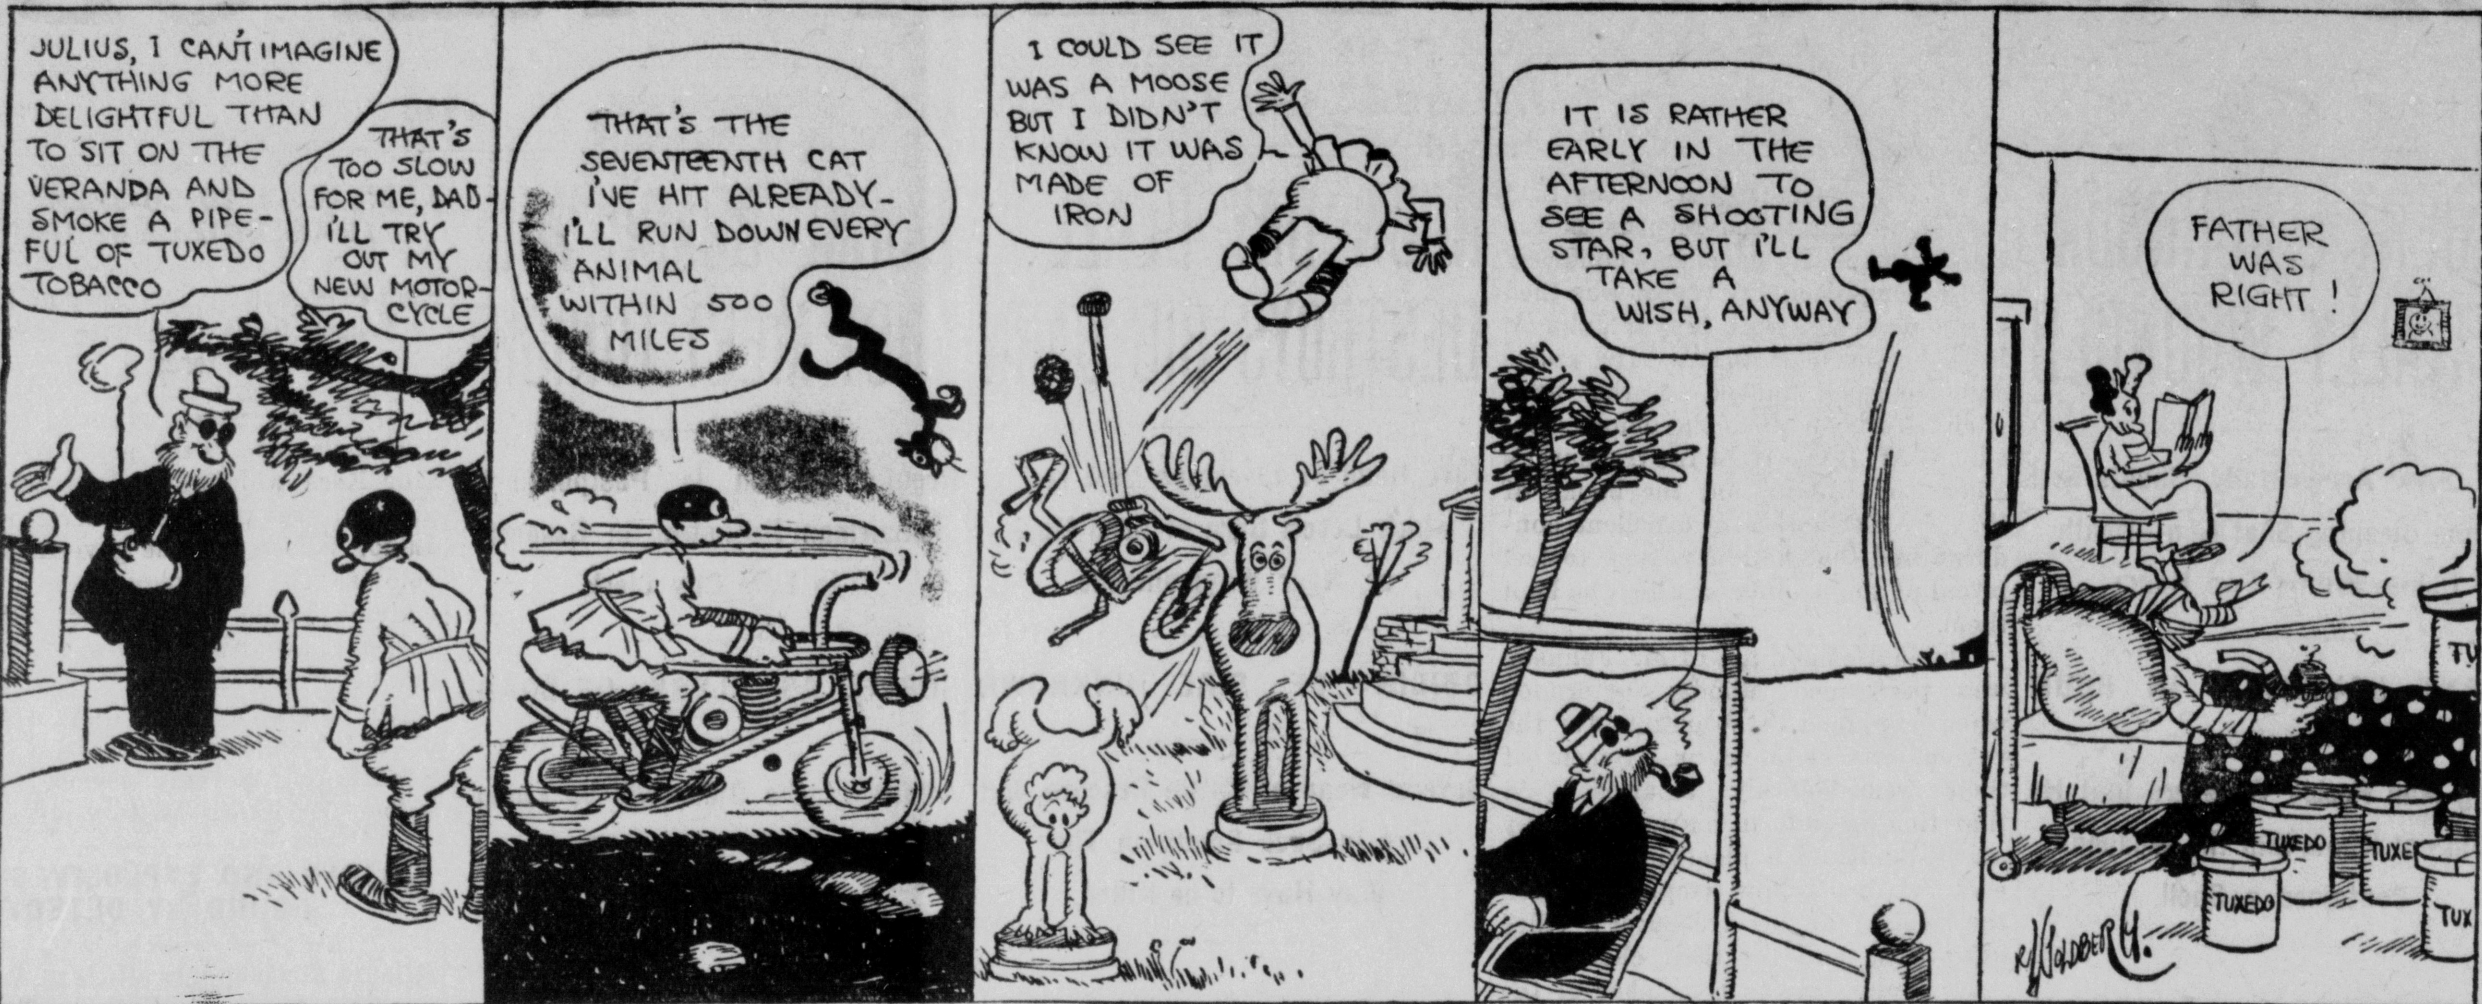

Pirates Capture Survivors.

"Once we got away the submarine rapidly closed in on the Woodfield and torpedoed and sank her. She went down about 10 in the morning. Fourteen hours later the captain and third mate's boats reached Penon (the island
of Pejon de la Gomera, off the Moroccians). Another boat reached Aland early and three sailors, was
the law appoorish pirates."

FIRE LOSS IS MILLIONS.

Canada's Parliament Buildings Cover
Four Acres on Top of a Hill.

The parliament buildings at Ottawa,
recently damaged by a fire believed to have been started by a bomb, are the chief attraction of the city, especially the buildings on Parliament hill. The library of parliament, which contains upward of 200,000 volumes, crowns the boldest promontory that juts into the Ottawa river. It is topped by a gothic tower which dominates the quadrangle of government buildings.

The buildings are entirely gothic, the parliament building, 470 feet long and 40 feet high, forming the main front,
with the Victoria tower rising 180 feet
above the principal entrance.
The parliament building contains the senate chamber and house of commons, the dimensions of these halls being the same as those of the house of lords, 80 by 45 feet, electrically lighted. The whole building is constructed of light colored sandstone, the walls
and arches being relieved with cut stone dressings of sandstone and red sandstone. Two departmental buildings, each with a 375 foot frontage,
stand back from the main building a distance of about 100 yards.

The entire group of parliament
buildings was erected between 1859
and 1865 at a cost of $5,000,000. The cornerstone of the main building was laid by the then Prince of Wales in 1860. The buildings altogether cover about four acres.

LEAVES FIRM TO

Publisher Rewards Those Who Helped Build Up Business.

EIGHTY-FIVE ARE BENEFITED

His Secretary, Longest In His Employ,
Gets $30,000, Another Gets $20,000,
and Those Who Have Not Been
There So Long Smaller Amounts.
Composing Room Happy.

The late John A. Hill, head of the Hill Publishing company, New York, believed with Benjamin Altman that good service extending over many years should be rewarded. Because of his belief two of his oldest employees
came to their office the other day to find themselves possessed of a comfortable fortune, and about eighty-five others were notified by a notice tacked
on the bulletin board in their locker
rooms that they had inherited $1,000 or more from their employer's will.

Mr. Hill's will was admitted to probate in Newark, N. J. Under its terms William W. Mayer, treasurer of the company, receives $25,000 for his twenty-two years' connection with the firm,
and Miss Rose Steiner, who was Mr.
Hill's private secretary, receives $30-000 for a longer period of service.

The will also allows $2,500 to every employee who has worked in any capacity whatsoever for twenty-five years in Mr. Hill's employ, $2,000 for those who have served twenty years, $1,500
for those who have served fifteen years
and $1,000 for those who have served
ten years.

All Legacies a Surprise.

"The whole thing was unexpected," said Mr. Mayer. "I can't say how many employees will benefit by it, for,
not knowing that this was to happen, I have not looked up the records. Mr.

Hill made his will several years ago,
and he expected to live longer than he did. That is why the provisions were made for the twenty-five and twenty year periods. There are no employees with such a record, as the company is not old enough, but there are about eighty-five who have served from ten to eighteen years."

They are of all sorts and all jobs,
these beneficiaries. In point of service
and in the amount of her inheritance
Miss Steiner comes first. A little, dark, alert woman, she has been Mr. Hill's secretary since he came to New York
as editor of the American Machinist
more than twenty-five years ago and cast her fortunes with his when he and Angus Sinclair bought the Locomotive Engineer in 1891. She and Mr. Mayer are the only ones remaining of those who became his employees at the time.

Composing Room to Benefit.

The others are for the most part in positions of minor importance, although there are a few of the executives who come under the terms of the will. The great rank and file of the eighty-five are subscription clerks, advertising writers and the like. There is one department that is largely represented, and that is the composing room.
It is little more than ten years ago that
the big printers' strike hit New York,
and Mr. Hill was one of the sufferers.
He hired strike breakers to keep going,
and practically all of these men stayed permanently, as the business is run as an open shop. John Hill's strike breakers of ten years ago have received an average of $1,000 a year as a bonus
for their service through the bequests
of the will.

The remainder of the estate is to be held in trust for his wife, Emma B.
Hill, and his daughter, Miss Jean Carlisle Hill. The business continues as before. It consists of five trade journals—the Locomotive Engineer, the American Machinist, the Engineering
and Mining Journal, the Engineering

BELGIANS HAVE A KUKLUX KLAN

Escaping Official Says Germans Can't Cope With It.

SPY EXECUTED BY MEMBER.

Papers Seized by Natives Reveal Work
of Invaders—Heavy Fine Imposed on City Where German Was Killed—Organization Has Newspaper Organ
That Can't Be Suppressed.

An official of the Belgian government
who has escaped from Brussels through the German lines by the "underground railway" and has just arrived at The Hague tells some startling stories of the mysterious undercurrents by which Belgians are constantly undermining
the German military authorities in Belgium.

According to this official, a great Belgian secret society, avowedly terror-istic in its plans and methods and patterned after the famous Kuklux Klan,
which existed in the southern states
in the years after the American civil war, was organized some months ago
and is constantly increasing its scope
and activities, which have already succeeded in causing the German authorities much trouble.

This society is believed to have been responsible for the death of Cels De-rode, the German spy who betrayed
Miss Edith Cavell and who recently
was shot down by an unidentified hand.
The German authorities have arrested
two men, a barber and an electrician,
for the murder, but are said to have
no real clue to its perpetrators.

Has Newspaper Organ.

The famous newspaper, Free Belgium, which is published regularly under the noses of the German officials
despite all their efforts to suppress it,

is supposed to be the organ of the secret society. It has stated that the death of Derode cost but one franc and that many more francs will be available for similar work.

The only reply which General von Bissing has yet been able to make for the death of his spy has been the levying of a fine of 500,000 marks (about $120,000) on the city of Brussels. It had previously been reported that this fine was levied because Derode was shot by an unlicensed revolver. The escaped Belgian official gives a different version of the affair.

It appears from his statement that after Derode had been killed a Belgian coroner's court was the first authoritative body to appear on the scene,
arriving some time before any representative of the German authorities.

The court seized all Derode's papers and examined them. These papers revealed all Derode's spying activities
and included reports of payments to him by the German authorities.

The Belgian officials refused to surrender these papers when General von Bissing demanded them, and for this reason General von Bissing fined the municipality.

NEW TETANUS FOUND.

Comes Without Cause and Despite Serum, Says Pasteur Physician.

Professor Laveran of the Pasteur institute described at a meeting of the Academy of Sciences a new form of tetanus, which has been investigated
by Dr. Bazy.

The new tetanus appears from thirty
to fifty days after the wound has been received, whether the patient has had a preventive injection of serum or not.

The attacks can occur without apparent cause, although they manifest themselves more frequently after operation or on the fresh outbreak of inflammation in wounds.

The disease is serious, death occur-ing in from one-third to one-half of the cases. To guard against this form of tetanus Dr. Bazy recommends that injections of serum be given every week from the time the wound is first dressed.

GERMAN ATTACK GROWS VIOLENT

Entire West Front Object of Offensive.

RUSSIANS CAPTURE FORT

Take Outpost Position of Turkish Caucasus Army at Erzerum—Teutons Putting Pressure on Roumania to Insure Neutrality of That Country.

London, Feb. 15.—Throughout the last twenty-four hours the huge battle front in the west, from the Belgian coast to the Vosges, witnessed a stubborn continuance of the violent local attacks by the Germans, which began nearly a week ago and which are apparently aimed at "feeling out" the weak and strong points in the allied line.

The Berlin official report claimed the penetration of the British positions at Poperinghe and the storming of French positions in the Champagne, extending over a front of seven hundred meters and a gain of four hundred yards in the Vosges.

The French war office, on the other hand, asserts the Germans failed to reach the French trenches, although it adds that the terrific losses have not prevented the attackers from holding on in their advanced trenches, referring evidently to French positions previously lost. Paris admits the loss of positions in upper Alsace, after they had been completely destroyed.

The exact gains or losses of either side since the German attacks began cannot be determined as the fighting continues along the whole front with the utmost violence. Thus far, the German attacks have not yet assumed the character of a general offensive. The gain in the Champagne, which was made northwest of La Ture, brought the Germans seven officers and 300 men as prisoners, as well as three machine guns and five mine throwers. A few dozen prisoners were taken by them in the Vosges fighting.

The Russians, who have been besieging for more than a month the Armenian fortress of Erzerum, have taken one of the forts, placing the main Turkish Caucasus army, concentrated there, in peril. The war office report says the fort was taken after an explosion caused by the Russian artillery, and with it numerous prisoners, six guns and much ammunition fell into Russian hands.

At last accounts the Russians, after vain attempts to take Erzerum by storm from the east, had begun a movement to the north of the fortress, presumably with the object to attack it from that direction, or possibly to surround it completely.

There is no confirmation of the unofficial report from Athens that Bulgaria is seeking separate peace with the allies. While the actual military situation in the two chief Balkan theaters of war, Macedonia and Albania, remains stationary, far-reaching developments "behind the screen" preparatory to sudden military strokes, marking every hour. All eyes are again turned toward Roumania, where the Kaiser's special emissary, Baron von Dem Busche-Haddenhausen, has started a vigorous publicity campaign, the predominant note of which may be summed up in the threat "if Roumania does not join the central powers shortly she will suffer for it."

At Salonica allied reinforcements continue to pour in as the Teutons and allies keep up the concentration of forces on the Greek border.

APPEAL FOR DYESTUFFS

Color Famine Threatens Whole Country, Says Representative Hill.

Washington, Feb. 15.—A strong appeal was addressed to both parties in house by Representative Hill of Connecticut, to join hands in passing legislation which will relieve the United States from distress as a result of the famine in dyestuffs. Textile industries, he said, are crippled, and the whole country is likely to be affected one way or the other by the color famine.

The condition he held to be due to the German monopoly which the United States has heretofore ignored.

Mr. Hill proposed the immediate passage of a bill imposing a protective duty on dyestuffs to encourage American manufacturers to erect plants for making colors and to release the country from the grasp of the German monopoly.

MUNITION BUILDING BURNS

Fire Starts In Shell Shop of the General Electric Company.

Schenectady, N. Y., Feb. 15.—Fire practically destroyed the concrete building used by the General Electric company for the manufacture of war munitions. The loss will be between $4,000 and $6,000, according to George E. Emmons, the general manager.

"We do not attach any significance to the fire," said Mr. Emmons. "It started in a small shop where we have been making shells and spread to the main shop. It undoubtedly was caused by spontaneous combustion as much oil was used in the work incident to the shell making."

Mr. Emmons said the damage would be repaired so that work could be resumed within two or three days.

MAY PROTEST INSPECTION

German Torpedo Boat Holds Up American Tanker In Neutral Waters.

Copenhagen, Feb. 15.—The Standard Oil tank ship Morene, flying the American flag and bound from New York to Copenhagen with a cargo of benzine and petroleum, was accosted and inspected by a German torpedo boat Feb. 5, in Danish waters at the Taarback.

According to statements by Captain Wheeler of the Morene, his vessel reached Taarback at dusk and was met by custom house officials. After their inspection the crew began unloading part of the cargo of benzine into lighters. While this work was going on a torpedo boat slipped up alongside.

"I wish to see your papers at once, as well as every wireless message you received en route," insisted the German officer.

Captain Wheeler complied with the demand. The officer thanked him and departed. Shortly afterward a second German torpedo boat hailed the Morene, but departed.

A protest against the boarding of the Morene in neutral waters is expected through the American consul general in this city.

ONLY ONE SHOT TOOK EFFECT

Farmer Accused of Shooting at Wife and Son-in-Law.

Goshen, Ind., Feb. 15.—Gustave Wire, a farmer, living six miles northwest of Goshen, near Dunlaps, is under arrest charged with attempting to shoot his wife and his son-in-law, Guy Bates of Goshen, at the Wire home. Wire used a revolver and a rifle and fired twelve shots. Only one of them took effect. It went through a door and lodged in Bates's right hand, producing a slight wound.

Mrs. Wire is the prisoner's second wife. She has four children by a former marriage. Bates married one of her daughters. It is alleged Wire attacked a fourteen-year-old daughter of his first wife and then attempted to shoot his wife and son-in-law. The women ran from the farmhouse and called the sheriff.

ONE HUNDRED LEADING HOOSIERS 1816-1916

(Prepared for the United Press by the Centennial Department of the Indiana Historical Commission.)

JONATHAN JENNINGS—2

Jonathan Jennings was chosen president of the Constitutional Convention of 1816, entering the race for governor immediately afterward, at the age of thirty-two. He was opposed by Thomas Posey, the territorial governor. The election occurred in August 1816, and Jennings received 5,211 votes to 3,934 for Governor Posey. During Jennings administration the entire machinery of the state government was put into operation. While governor he was appointed commissioner by President Monroe in 1816, to treat with the Indians at St. Mary's, Ohio. According to the constitution of Indiana the governor was disqualified from holding a position under the federal government. Lieutenant Governor Harrison at once insisted that Governor Jennings, by accepting the appointment as Commissioner, disqualified himself, and had forfeited the office of governor. When Jennings returned, Harrison refused to vacate the office. Jennings presented his demands—whereupon Harrison left, took the state seal and opened another office. When the legislature met in December, 1816, a committee appointed to investigate the contest, finally recognized Governor Jennings as the legal executive and received his message.

TROUBLES OF A DEBUTANTE.

New York Nerve Specialists Tells of Ills of Society Girls.

Know the troubles of the New York society girl?

Here they are as described by Dr. Thaddeus Hoyt Ames in a talk at the Academy of Medicine:

"Too much dancing and 'late hours' are the usual excuses put out by the family when a society girl gets nervous prostration, but this is not what the girl herself says when she confides her troubles to a physician.

"She says she is too much dictated to by her parents. She has to get up and go to bed and go out just when her mother says so. She has to wear just what her mother chooses and she has no life, no will of her own.

"Then, too, this society girl has become distracted by the rival claims of young men who have fallen in love with her and wish to marry her."

There were no casualties, but uniforms were ruined and the tea was over. It was one of the Turkish shell cases. They didn't know it was loaded.

JUDGE MONTGOMERY

It is with genuine pleasure that we say a word concerning the candidacy of Judge Oscar H. Montgomery, of this city, for the Supreme Court of Indiana from this judicial district. The candidates for the supreme bench because of the very nature of the position do not wage a wide publicity campaign as do other aspirants for the state office, but the voters should not lose sight of the importance of this office.

Because of his previous judicial experience, his successful career as an attorney and his practical knowledge of business in general, Judge Montgomery is admirably equipped and qualified to sit as a member of the state's highest tribunal. For six years he was a member of the court and during that time fully demonstrated his value as a judge. He is recognized by attorneys throughout the state as one of the most able judges that ever served on the supreme bench. Since the announcement of his candidacy he has received hundreds of letters from lawyers in all parts of Indiana commending him upon his former term and promising their unswerving support in his race for renomination. Such support as this coming as it does without solicitation, shows the high regard in which he is held by the attorneys who will bring appeals before him and who are willing to allow him to act as the final arbiter.

The importance of the supreme court cannot be too highly emphasized. It is the last tribunal before which many appeals can be taken and it is imperative, therefore, that the members be equipped not only by judicial and legal training but be men of open minds who will base their opinions on equity and justice in conformity to accepted legal principles. In this respect, Judge Montgomery has been tried and his record is a splendid recommendation for his re-election. His decisions are marked by fairness and justice.

It is, indeed, a true pleasure to recommend such an able candidate to the Republicans, of Jackson county, the Fourth district and the state. Judge Montgomery will receive the support of the voters of this city and county, irrespective of party affiliations, as they have had occasion to know him as a friend, neighbor, attorney and judge who is in every particular qualified to fill the position of honor and dignity.

IN POSITION OF REFEREE.

The following is from an article written by Will H. Hays, chairman of the Republican State Committee, that appeared in the Lincoln League edition of the Terre Haute Spectator: "The principles of the Republican party since the days of the Emancipation Proclamation have been right; and they are right today. Men live and die but principles endure, and you may be very sure that this fall's election in state and nation will register the people's adherence to these principles and their faith in our candidates. The selection of these candidates will be the free expression of the choice of the party membership. And in this activity all men who desire to affiliate with us are most earnestly urged to participate. The province of the position I occupy is to use every honest means to elect the candidates and not in any sense to control the nominations. In the strenuous days which are immediately before us we will act as referee only, strictly observing a referee's limitations. And when the selections have been made, the great reunited Republican party in Indiana will go forth behind these good men, whoever they may be, for a complete victory in November."

There are many possibilities for the newly organized Jackson County Corn Growers' Association. The members are interested in the same movement—that of improving the quality of corn and promoting the output for seed. Other counties have made rapid advancement in this direction and there is no reason why the farmers in this community should not share in the enhanced revenues.

There is nothing to be gained by the city council following the "watchful waiting" policy in the engineer's case. The taxpayers are entitled to the unhampered services of a qualified and competent engineer. The salary is going on. Some of it has been paid into the court awaiting the decision in the case. The council can easily settle the controversy and as representatives of the people it is only fair to them and to the contestants that a policy as to the future be adopted.

As a feature of the Indiana centennial it has been suggested that a monument be erected in Indianapolis to commemorate the great work that was done by pioneer mothers. Their hardships were untold. Yet, they had an important place in the early life of this state.

"Passing Prosperity Around!" That is the meaning of those little red and black "targets" you see every place. That is the meaning of National Pay Up Week that is to be observed here the week of February 21-28.

As yet we haven't heard the name of Henry Ford suggested as a probable successor to Secretary of War Garrison.

LYCEUM SEASON BROUGHT TO SUCCESSFUL CLOSE

Wells Watson Ginn Pleases Audience in Presentation of "The Man From Home."

The lyceum course was brought to a close last evening at the Majestic with an unusually good attraction, "The Man From Home," presented in monologue form by Wells Watson Ginn. This popular play of Booth Tarkington's offers exceptional opportunities to an interpretative reader, and Mr. Ginn makes the most of every opportunity. He combines a pleasing voice and mannerism with a natural histrionic ability and a thorough understanding of his subject, and the result is a finished and most pleasing performance. It is no small task to interpret in turn all the characters of a play, and especially is this true in a play like "The Man From Home," where the contrast in characters is so marked. That Mr. Ginn succeeds in doing this will be testified to by any one in last night's audience. He was given the closest attention of his audience, and his work was most favorably commented upon.

The number last night closed the third annual course given under the auspices of the Lyceum Entertainment Committee. A special feature attraction will be brought here on March 9th, when the Metropolitan Concert Company, of New York, featuring Skovgaard, the Danish violinist, will appear at the Majestic under the auspices of this committee. This is one of the very strongest concert companies in the country, and is now returning to New York after a successful tour of the larger cities of California, following an engagement at the Panama Exposition at San Francisco.

NATION PLANS PUBLIC PARKS

Saving Rarest Places of Beauty In Its Domain.

ROAD FUNDS BADLY NEEDED

New Rocky Mountain Paradise In Colorado—Secretary Lane Tells How Yellowstone Park Has Been Developed In Recent Years Until It Is Show Place of America.

Secretary Lane in a recent report calls attention to the national parks as a valuable and undeveloped asset of the country. He says:

"The United States furnishes playgrounds to the people of this country which are, we may modestly state, without any rivals in the world. Just as the cities are seeing the wisdom and the necessity of open spaces for the children, so, with a very large view, the nation has been saving from its domain the rarest places of grandeur and beauty for the enjoyment of the world.

"During the year a new national park of distinction and unusual accessibility has come into existence. It crosses the Rockies in Colorado at a point of supreme magnificence; hence its title, the Rocky Mountain National park. Through it from north to south winds the continental divide—the Snowy range in name and fact. Two hundred lakes grace this rocky paradise, and bear and bighorn inhabit its fastnesses. It has an area of 350 square miles and lies only seventy miles from Denver. Many hotels lie at the feet of these mountains, and three railroads skirt their sides.

"This is Colorado's second national park, the other being Mesa Verde, where this department, with the assistance of Dr. Jesse Walter Fewkes of the Smithsonian Institution, has uncovered during the last summer prehistoric ruins of unprecedented scientific interest.

Great Highway In Oregon.

"Oregon has but recently completed a great highway along the Columbia river. This should be connected by road with Mount Hood and a portion of the present forest reserve converted into a park. The limits of Sequoia park, in California, the home of the great redwoods, should be so extended as to include the Kern River canyon, a most practicable project today, but tomorrow may be too late, because of the lumber interests. The Grand canyon is not yet part of the park system, although as part of a national forest it comes under the control of the department of agriculture.

"There is no reason why this nation should not make its public health and scenic domain as available to all its citizens as Switzerland and Italy make theirs. The aim is to open them thoroughly by road and trail and give access and accommodation to every degree of income. In this belief an effort has been made this year as never before to outfit the parks with new hotels which should make the visitor desire to linger rather than hasten on his journey.

"While as the years have passed we have been modestly developing the superb scenic possibilities of the Yellowstone, nature has made of it the largest and most populous game preserve in the western hemisphere. Its great size, its altitude, its vast wilderness, its plentiful waters, its favorable conformation of rugged mountain and sheltered valley, and the nearly perfect protection afforded by the policy and the scientific care of the government have made this park, since its inauguration in 1872, the natural and inevitable center of game conservation for this nation. There is something of significance in this. It is the destiny of the national parks, if wisely controlled, to become the public laboratories of nature study for the nation. And from them specimens may be distributed to the city and state preserves, as is now being done with the elk of the Yellowstone, which are too abundant, and may be later with the antelope.

"If congress will but make the funds available for the construction of roads over which automobiles may travel with safety (for all the parks are now open to motors) and for trails to hunt out the hidden places of beauty and dignity, we may expect that year by year these parks will become a more precious possession of the people, holding them to the further discovery of America and making them still prouder of its resources, aesthetic as well as material."

MACHINIST SAYS HE IS WELL MAN

"Tanlac Has Worked Wonders For Me," Charles Miller, of Muncie, Declares.

Muncie, Ind., February 14, 1916.—Charles Miller, a well known Muncie machinist, who lives at 1501 West Tenth street, is one of the thousands of people who have been relieved by Tanlac, the Master Medicine, that is being used so widely in Indiana. He said recently:

"For eight years I was in a run down condition. I suffered from intense pains in my stomach, had frequent palpitations of the heart and terrible headaches, and was in a nervous, bloated, constipated condition.

"Tanlac has worked wonders for me. I have been taking the medicine only a short time, but already I have been greatly relieved. The palpitations of the heart and the headaches are gone, and the constipated condition has disappeared. Tanlac has made me a well man."

The words of such a well known man of the community as Mr. Miller, with the reputation he has for honesty and integrity, added, as they are, to the testimony of thousands of others, should prove the merits of Tanlac. Tanlac is especially beneficial for people suffering from run down conditions and is excellent for stomach, kidney and liver troubles, rheumatism, nervousness and the like.

Tanlac is sold exclusively in Seymour at Carter's Drug Store.

DEFENDANT IS ACQUITTED OF ASSAULT AND BATTERY

Seba A. Barnes, Special Judge, Gives Decision Acquitting Mrs. John V. Dehler.

The case of the state against Mrs. John V. Dehler, charged with assault and battery, which grew out of a controversy in the construction of a drain, was tried today before Seba A. Barnes, special judge. A change of venue was taken from the mayor's court. After the witnesses had testified, the judge found for the defendant upon the ground that she had the right to defend her property and the rights which she thought belonged to her.

Witnesses for the state gave conflicting testimony relative to the charge of assault and battery. Mrs. Dehler stepped into a hole where a drain on her property on North Chestnut street was being tapped, to prevent workmen from cutting into the tile. One of the men swore out an assault and battery charge. The court held that Mrs. Dehler was not rightfully accused of assault and battery and that the evidence would not support such a charge. F. W. Wesner represented the defendant.

Indianapolis, Feb. 15.—The supreme court of Indiana sitting as a trial court, to-day heard the facts in the case in which Gene Williams, deputy prosecutor of Delaware county, seeks to mandate Judge Frank Ellis of the Delaware circuit court to try to appoint judges agreed upon by prosecutor Frank Mann and the attorneys for their defense.

The issue in the case is whether Prosecutor Frank Mann was so disqualified by the fact that his deputy is involved in the case that Judge Ellis was warranted in appointing a special prosecutor.

The court, deciding the law in the case, recently ruled for Judge Ellis, deciding that in certain circumstances he would be warranted in appointing a special prosecutor who would act in choosing a trial judge.

If Judge Ellis is again sustained a special judge agreed upon by the appointed prosecutor and the defense will try the graft cases involving Williams. Mayor Rollin Bunch of Muncie and other officials.

DePAUW AND MOORES HILL WILL NOT BE CONSOLIDATED

Joint Committee of Two Methodist Universities Abandon Merger Plans.

Greencastle, Ind., February 15.—Officials of DePauw University have announced definitely that the proposed merger of the local school and Moores Hill College, which has been under the consideration of a joint committee of the two Methodist schools since last summer, has been abandoned and that the institutions will be continued in their present status.

The only reason given for declining the proposal made by officials of the Moores Hill corporation and favored by several members of the DePauw corporation and the board of education of the Methodist church, through its Indiana representative, the Rev. A. B. Storms of Indianapolis, is that the time is not yet ripe for the consolidation.

The joint committee which had the merger plan under advisement held two meetings. After thorough investigation, it was considered inadvisable to attempt to transfer the Moores Hill property to the DePauw corporation at the present time.

The internal problems and financial obligations which the move would have entailed, together with the disapproval of many alumni of both schools, are supposed to have been the greatest factors in influencing the committee in its decision.

The joint committee was composed of two members of the board of trustees of each school, together with the presidents of the two colleges, Dr. George R. Grose and Dr. A. J. Bigney.

Dr. Storms was chairman of the joint committee. The trustees representing DePauw were Hugh Dougherty and Henry H. Hornbrook of Indianapolis, president and secretary respectively of the board. Ward Watson and Sol H. Esarey, both of Indianapolis, were the Moores Hill representatives.

The DePauw representatives, although opposing the merger at the present time, expressed a willingness to co-operate with Moores Hill in any practical way in its campaign for funds with which to meet the needs of the smaller college.

MISS VERA BARSTOW TO BE HEARD IN CONCERT TONIGHT

Noted Violinist to Appear Under Auspices of Seymour Conservatory of Music.

A musical event of considerable interest is the appearance tonight at the First Baptist church, of Miss Vera Barstow, violinist. Miss Barstow has studied under the leading instructors of Europe, and has appeared as soloist with the great orchestras both of this country and the old world. Much interest is being shown in musical circles over tonight's concert, and the outlook is for a crowded house. Miss Barstow will be assisted in the program by Miss Edith Graham, soprano, of Indianapolis, and Miss Irene St. Quentin, pianist, of the Seymour Conservatory of Music. Mrs. Chaney, vocal instructor at the conservatory, who was to have been on the program, is ill and unable to appear. Miss Graham, who has studied abroad for several years, and who has a beautiful soprano voice of unusual quality, kindly consented to sing.

The program this evening will commence at 8:15 o'clock. The Senior class of the high school will attend the concert in a body.

$50,000 OF OHIO MANHeart Balm Suit Against Banker Sequel to Tag Day.

Canton, O., Feb. 15.—The day that R. R. Jacob, president of the Waynesburg bank at Waynesburg, this county, and a wealthy lumberman, saw Mrs. Ellen W. Canine, an Indianapolis widow as she was selling tags for the Flower Mission at Indianapolis in the lobby of the Claypool hotel, he told her she was the only woman in the world who suited him, attorneys here state.

The next evening he took her to dinner and the theater, and later went to her home in Broad Ripple, and according to attorneys, she promised that very night to be his wife. Her attorneys made these allegations here in the opening of a case in which Mrs. Canine is suing Jacob for $50,000 for breach of promise.

Mrs. Canine is to take the stand and tell the story to the jury in her own way.

Attorneys for Jacob in their opening statement admitted that Jacob had courted the widow for a time, but declared they would be able to prove any indication of an engagement was "a frame-up" and that Mrs. Canine had followed Jacob to Pittsburgh, Pa., his present home, forcing her attentions on him.

A large number of letters will be introduced in evidence. Mrs. Canine charges that thirty more were taken when her home was broken into and her desk ransacked.

Attorneys for the officials of the German consulate were in conference with Mr. Thomas and Mrs. Annette Adams, assistant United States district attorney, as to whether the consul-general could appear by proxy.

"The law is the law for all indicted men alike," was the decision of the federal attorneys. Mrs. Adams added that a consular representative of a foreign government may not demand any different treatment from that accorded to the humblest citizen.

U. S. MAY ACCEPT
TEUTON ORDERRight to Attack Armed Vessels
Without Warning.

DISCOUNT ALLIES' THREAT

Acceptance of Germany's New Submarine Policy Is Declared of Vital Importance to the Safety of the United States in Time of War.

Washington, Feb. 15.—Considerations of vital importance affecting the safety of the United States in time of war, are declared by high officials of the government to have been responsible for the action of Secretary of State Lansing in urging the entente powers to agree to disarmament of their merchant ships.

These same considerations, it is said, are responsible for the fact that whether or not the allies agree to the proposals, the American government has practically made up its mind to change its rules and acquiesce in the contention made by Austria and Germany of their right to attack all armed ships without warning.

This contention, based on the ground that armed merchant ships are to be regarded in the light of submarine warfare as auxiliary ships of war, is declared to have the unanimous backing of the authorities of the American navy.

It is stated that officers of the navy department have informed the state department that it is of vital consequence that the precedents growing out of the present war should not be of a character to embarrass the free use of submarines by this country in time of a foreign war. Owing to the tremendous stretches of coast line on both sides of the Atlantic and Pacific oceans and the limited number of coast defense fortifications, naval experts hold to the view that in time of war the United States would be compelled to rely largely on its submarines for coast defense.

Consequently, it is said, the American government in taking the position that merchant vessels to be immune from attack without warning, should carry no guns, is paving the way for a change in international law, which, it is contended must be taken in view of the development of the submarine as an important factor in naval warfare.

Although no definite decision has been announced yet by Secretary Lansing, the impression is growing daily that he has decided not to protest against the declared intention of the Teutonic powers to attack all armed enemy ships without warning after March 1. At the same time, it is understood the state department will direct to the governments of Germany and Austria instructions as to the methods to be followed by their submarines in determining if the particular ships they attack are armed.

At present state department officials declare Great Britain and Italy are the only entente powers known to have armed their merchantmen. England, as pointed out, has not armed these ships plying back and forth across to the Atlantic. France, it is said, has armed none of her ships.

The formal notice concerning Austria's intention to attack armed merchant ship without warning after the first of the month, was received at the state department from Ambassador Penfield at Vienna. The official text of the two decrees will not be made public here until the state department has received certain appendices being forwarded by mail.

In entente quarters the talk is growing of reprisals which may be undertaken against the American government if the United States instructs its port officers to deny the customary harbor facilities to armed merchant ships. Officials of the state department, however, continue to discount these threats as ridiculous.

Officials of the department are inclined to think that if the United States changes its rule it will also adopt new passport regulations under which passports will be refused Americans for travel on armed liners.

MAKE ARREST IN
ANARCHIST PLOTItalian Charged With Conspiracy to Murder.

NATION-WIDE SEARCH MADE

Crones, the Soup Poisoner, Is Being Hunted in Almost Every City in America—Vast Series of Death Plots Evidenced.

Chicago, Feb. 14.—John Allegrini, confidant of Louis Crone, enmeshed in circumstances that point to a wholesale anarchistic activity, was locked up in the detective bureau, formally charged with conspiracy to commit murder.

The arrest came after a day of searching investigation into the antecedents of Crone, the assistant chef of the University club, anarchist and proprietor of the "Laboratory of Death," who is sought as the man who introduced six hundred grains of arsenic into the soup served at the dinner to Archbishop Mundellien.

An amazing discovery came with the man's arrest. In a pocket was found the detailed technical sketch of a bomb. Also there was a letter, one of several referring to bombs. That there is a direct anarchistic plot against church as well as state, appeared in the following paragraph from one of the letters:

"It takes about three months to end up one of these things. Then it is good enough to send a priest or any other religious man, high in the air."

This portion alone was made public by Captain Hunt. In the letter and bomb sketch was seen the beginning of a plot against the church.

It was deemed probable that the bomb plot was passed by for the safer method of poison as concerted in the "death laboratory" of Jean Crone.

Although the search for Crone, who is accused of having introduced six hundred grains of arsenic into the soup served at the banquet, still is prosecuted in almost every city in America, anarchist retreats in Chicago are closely watched.

In Patterson, N. J., the hot bed of anarchy, the police made diligent efforts. Every scrap of evidence against anarchists was used.

Inquiry in Scranton, Pa., headquarters of the International Correspondence schools, reveals corroboration that Crone was a student of chemistry in the institution. An official of the school admitted that an ounce of arsenic oxide poison was shipped to Crone last month.

In Allegrini's possession were found letters that are believed to be of great significance. These were turned over to Detective Sergeant Riccio for translation.

Interwoven in the fabric of the prosecution is the persistent strand of international plotting. The police believe there is reason to suspect that the poisoning of the soup at the university club banquet is only the beginning of a vast series of death plots. In this connection a search was made for Mrs. Sophie Bresci. Mrs. Bresci is the wife of the assassin of King Humbert of Italy. She lived formerly at Vernon Park and Sholto in the Italian district, but is said now to reside in St. Paul.

Another reason for suspecting a widespread plot lies in the attitude of Allegrini. In his cell at the detective bureau he was questioned by a reporter who showed Allegrini a copy of the publication issued by Emma Goldman, archpriestess of anarchy. In the margins of the pamphlet were those names written: "Ella Donamiti, Dot Di Tant Ambroffio, Bernanconi Angelo."

The pamphlet had been taken from the room occupied by Crone in the Prairie avenue house.

NET CLOSES ON DR. LYMAN

Arrest of Alleged Mail Swindler Is Expected Soon.

New York, Feb. 15.—Assistant United States Attorney Stanton declares that the search for Dr. John Grant Lyman, alias John H. Putnam, is rapidly nearing a successful close. Lyman's apprehension on a warrant charging him with using the mails to defraud investors in oil stocks, may be expected at any moment, Mr. Stanton said, and a week at the most will suffice to see the mail swindler, fake broker and turf man in the clutches of the postoffice inspectors.

Louis B. Thonet, Lyman's manager in the brokerage office, made another statement to Prosecutor Stanton.

Thonet is out on bail under charges of conspiring with Lyman in a mail fraud which is said to have cleaned up between $300,000 and $400,000 through the fake sale of stock on the installment plan.

To Seize Distilleries.

London, Feb. 15.—The government will immediately take over all the large whiskey distilleries and use them as munitions factories, says the Daily Chronicle. The newspaper adds that the step will be facilitated by the fact that the government intends to prohibit the importation of barley for distilling purposes.

"A Sack of Satisfaction"

VALIER'S ENTERPRISE FLOUR

MADE IN AMERICA—VAST SERIES OF DEATH PLOTS EVIDENCED.

Feel how fine

Ordinary flours seem coarse in texture when compared with the surpassing quality of Valier's Enterprise Flour.

By our special slow process of milling, we preserve, in the flour, the full baking quality of finest wheat, from which this flour is made. Then we sift many times through imported Swiss silk to make its texture as fine as its quality. You'll find that Valier's Enterprise Flour not only makes better baking, but makes more baking per sack.

FIND POISON IN HOME
OF STUDENT MURDEREREvidence Sufficient to Convict, Says State.

Chicago, Feb. 15.—Discovery of a quantity of poison in the basement of the home of Will H. Orpet, the collegian accused of the murder of his former sweetheart, Marian Frances Lambert, and the announcement by Lake county officials that other arrests were possible are developments in the inquiry into the death of Miss Lambert.

The poison was found by State's Attorney Dady and Chief of Police McGuire and, according to the state's attorney, it was identical with that which is believed to have ended the life of the Lake Forest high school girl.

Word came from Madison, Wis., that Charles W. Hassinger, a clerk employed in the Tiedman pharmacy, admitted selling an empty bottle to Orpet before the young man made his secret trip to Lake Forest to meet the girl in the lonely woods where her body was found.

The parents of the girl disclaimed any desire to release Orpet from custody and urged that the law be permitted to take its course.

State's Attorney Dady said: "The state's case is not complete. Other angles of the mysterious death remain to be investigated, but on the evidence we already have I feel confident of our ability to secure a conviction."

TRAIN HITS AUTO: TWO DEAD

Undertaker and Garage Owner Run Down at Railroad Crossing.

Richmond, Ind., Feb. 15.—Vernon Moore, age thirty-five, and Harry Lee, age forty, both prominent citizens of Eldorado, O., sixteen miles east of Richmond, were killed when an automobile in which they were riding was struck by a Pennsylvania express train.

Moore, who was an undertaker, had received a professional call in the country, and had employed Lee, a garage owner, to drive him to the place. The car had reached the railroad crossing, near the passenger station, in the town, and neither occupant, apparently, heard the approaching train. The automobile was pushed ahead of the locomotive for 100 yards.

Moore was killed outright, and Lee died soon after being brought to Reid hospital in this city.

HURLED MORE THAN 100 FEET

Grocery Delivery Clerk and His Car
Struck by a Train.

Huntington, Ind., Feb. 15.—Robert Hickman, age twenty-two, a former resident of Marion, employed here as a grocery delivery clerk, was seriously injured when his delivery car was struck by Wabash passenger train No. 28, at a grade crossing west of the Wabash depot in this city.

His body was hurled 106 feet and the machine was demolished. Hickman's hip was crushed and internal injuries are evident, besides a fractured skull. He is in the Huntington hospital with little chances of surviving.

No Evidence of Danger.

Washington, Feb. 15.—Department of justice officials said they had no evidence to support the alarm of Canadian officials that the Dominion was in danger of invading parties from the United States.

Girl Dies of Leprosy.

New York, Feb. 15.—Fifteen-year-old Tillie Davis, who came to this city from Key West, Fla., for treatment for leprosy, is dead, because an operation intended to save her life could not be performed.

Milan Is Bombarded.

Rome, Feb. 15.—Austrian aeroplanes bombarded Milan from the air, it was announced.

MRS. CARRIE C. CATT
Organizing Suffrage Parades
at Chicago and St. Louis.

New York, Feb. 15.—When the Republican national convention meets in Chicago on June 7, it will be invaded by the largest suffrage parade that ever marched in this country. So says Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, president of the National Woman Suffrage association, who returned to New York from a trip to Chicago, St. Louis and Iowa. Mrs. Catt organized the parade committee in Chicago and set the movement going and then got St. Louis women to agree to pay the same attention to the Democrats when they meet in convention in that city on June 14.

How Mr. Davis Got Rid of a Bad
Cough.

"Some time ago I had a very bad cough," writes Lewis T. Davis, Blackwater, Del. "My brother McCabe Davis gave me a small bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. After taking this I bought half a dozen bottles of it but only used one of them as the cough left me and I have not been troubled since." Obtainable everywhere.

Washington, Feb. 15.—Secretary Daniels has designated the cruiser Tennessee to carry American delegates to Buenos Aires, next April, for the meeting of the joint high pan-American commission.

True Secret of Keeping Youthful Looking

(The Beauty Seeker.)

"The real secret of keeping young-looking and beautiful," says a well-known hygienist, "is to keep the liver and bowels normally active. Without these requisites, poisonous waste products remain in the system, polluting the blood and lodging in various organs, tissues, joints. One becomes flabby, obese, nervous, mentally sluggish, dull-eyed, wrinkled and sallow of face.

"But to get liver and bowels working as they ought, without producing evil after-effects has been the problem. Fortunately, there is a prescription of unquestioned merit, which may now be had in convenient tablet form. Its value is due largely to an ingredient derived from the humble May apple, or its root, which has been called 'vegetable calomel' because of its effectiveness—though, of course, it is not to be classed with the real calomel of mercurial origin. There is no habit-forming constituent in 'santonal' tablets—that's the name—and their use is not followed by weakness or exhaustion. On the contrary, these harmless vegetable tablets tend to impart tone and elasticity to the relaxed intestinal wall. Santonal tablets, which may be procured from any druggist—a dime's worth will do—will prove a revelation to any constipated, liver-troubled person."

The Constipation Curse

Constipation—clogged bowels cause pain and sickness; 95 per cent of our ills, say the authorities. Santonal Laxatives bring quick relief. All vegetable—contain no calomel. Ten doses for a dime at any druggist. Physician's sample free, upon request, if you mention this advertisement. The Santonal Remedies Co., Inc., 800 Madison Ave., Covington, Ky.

CHAPTER XIII

Alan Wayne had been away for a year. He had not returned from Montreal but had gone one from there to work in South America and, later, to Africa.

He had been in town for several days when he met the judge one afternoon in November on the avenue.

"Judge," he said without preamble, "what's this I hear about Gerry disappearing?"

"It's true," said the judge and added grimly, "he disappeared the day you went to Montreal."

Alan colored and his face turned grave. "I am sorry," he said. "I didn't know it."

"Sorry for what?" asked the judge, but Alan refused the opening and the judge hardly regretted it. They were not in tune and he felt it. His heart was heavy over Alan for his own sake. He had broken what the judge had long revered as a charmed circle. He had exiled himself from that which should have been dearer to him than his heart's desire. The judge wondered if he realized it. "You're not going out to Red Hill?" he asked, trying to make the question casual.

Alan glanced at him sharply. What was the judge after? "No," he said after a pause, "I shall not break the communal coma of Red Hill for some time. I'm off again. McDale & McDale have loaned me to Ellinson's. I've become a sort of poobah on construction in Africa. They get a premium for lending me."

Alan's speech habitually drawled except for an occasional retort that came like the crack of a whip. The judge looked him over curiously. Alan's dress was almost too refined. His person was as well cared for as a woman's. Every detail about him was a studied negation of work, utility, service. The judge thought of Collingford's story and wondered.

They walked in silence for some time and then Alan took his leave. The judge followed his erect figure with solemn eyes. Alan had deteriorated. One cannot be the fly in the amber of more than one woman's memory without clouding one's own soul, and a clouded soul has its peculiar circumambience which the clean can feel. The judge felt it in Alan and winced.

If Alan did not go to the Hill, the Hill, in certain measure, came to Alan. The next afternoon found the captain once more established in his chair in a window at the club with Alan beside him. The captain had not changed. His hair was in the same state of white insurgency, his eyes bulged in the same old way, and he still puffed when he talked. His garb was identical and awakened the usual interest in the passing gamin.

"You'll never grow old, sir," said Alan.

"Old!" said the captain. "Huh, I grew old before you were born." The captain spoke with pride. He straightened his bullet head and poised a tot of whisky with a steady hand. "What did I tell you?" he said into space.

"How's that, sir?"

"What did I tell you," repeated the captain swinging around his eyes, "about women?"

Alan flushed angrily. He had no retort for the old man. He sat sullenly silent.

The captain colored too. "That's right," he said with a surprising touch of choler. "Sulk. Every badly broken colt sulks at the grip of the bit. What you need, young man, is a touch of the whip and you're going to get it."

And then the old man revealed a surprising knowledge of words that could lash. At first Alan was indifferent, then amazed, and finally recognized himself beaten at his own game. He came out of that interview thoroughly chastened and with an altogether new respect for the old captain. No one knew better than Alan that it took a special brand of courage to whip him with words but the captain had not stopped to stuff his own ears with cotton wool before engaging the enemy. He had risked all in one liquid, stinging, overwhelming volley and he had won.

The captain's code was peculiar, to say the least, and held the passionate pilgrim in ample regard but, as he pointed out to Alan, it was a code of honor. It played a game within rules. He further remarked that the hawk was a bird of evil repute but personally he preferred him to the eagle that fouls its own nest. There were other pregnant phrases that hung in Alan's mind for some time and half awakened him to a realization of where he stood. Many a man, propped up by the sustaining atmosphere of a narrow world, has passed merciless judgment on such sins as Alan's—metal-unproved, sitting in judgment over the bar that twists in the flame. But the captain was not one of the world's confident army of the untested. He had roamed the high seas of pleasure as well as the ocean wave. Alan would have struck back at a saint but he took chastisement from the old sinner with good grace.

Alan left the captain and presented himself at the downtown offices of J. Y. Wayne & Co. They were expecting him and he was shown in to his uncle immediately, to the exasperation of several pompous, waiting clients. It was the first time that uncle and nephew had been face to face since their memorable interview at Maple House.

J. Y. Wayne was aging. He had lived hard and showed it, but there was no weakness in his age and he met Alan without compromise. He nodded toward a chair but did not offer his hand. When he spoke his voice was low and modulated to the tone of business. "I wanted to see you to tell you that you have overpaid your account with me. The balance has been put to your credit. You can see the cashier about that. I want to tell you, too, that I have made too much money myself to admire a surprising capacity in that direction in anyone else."

"Don't think that I don't appreciate the significance of your wiping out a debt which you incurred unwittingly. I can see that you had to do it because a Wayne must carry his head high in his own eyes. But—" and here J. Y.'s eyes left his nephew's expressionless face and looked vaguely into the shadows of the room. His voice took a lower key. "With all your sacrifice to pride you have failed in pride. You have not been proud in the things that count."

J. Y.'s voice fell still lower. His words hung and dropped in the silence of the room like the far-away throb of a great bell on a still night. "Yesterday Clem was crying because you had not come to the house. I try to think, Alan, that it's because Clem is there that you have not come. If I could think that—" J. Y.'s eyes came slowly back to Alan's face. A dull red was burning there. J. Y. went on, "Shame is a precious thing to a man. Different creeds—different circumstances—carry us to various lengths. Ethics are elastic today as never before but, as long as shame holds a bit of ground in a man's battlefield, he can win back to any height."

For a long minute there was silence, then on a common impulse they both arose. Alan's eyes were wide open and moist. He held out his hand and J. Y. gripped it. It was their whole farewell.

Back in his rooms Alan sat down and wrote to Clem:

Dear Clem: We are all two people. Uncle J. Y. cut his other half off about thirty years ago and left it behind. The judge has his other half locked up in a closet. He has never let it out at all. And so on, with every one of us. This sounds very funny to you now but some day when you are grown up you will catch your self looking at you and then you will understand what I mean. I am two people too. The half of me that knows you and loves you and Red Hill and that you love has been away longer than the rest of me. He only got back twenty minutes ago, and it is too late for him to come and see you because he and the rest of me are off tomorrow on another trip. But he wants you to know that he is awfully sorry to have missed you. Next time I shall bring him with me. I hope, and I'll send him to you the day we arrive.

SOME INDIANA PEOPLE GET QUICK RELIEF

Hundreds of Indiana people have found relief from stomach and digestive troubles by the use of Mayr's Wonderful Remedy.

This remedy is safe and efficient. The first dose gives results. And the treatment is not long. It has a wonderful record.

Here are the statements of two who have used and proven the merits of the remedy:

CHARLES INMAN, 424 East Chestnut St., Hartford City, Ind.—"Four doctors said they could not cure me unless I went to Fort Wayne to be operated on. I took your treatment. In three weeks I went to work and haven't missed but a half day since."

WALTER SPRAY, 1011 South Second St., Frankfort, Ind.—"Before I took your medicine I suffered a great deal, but since I took the first dose I have not had a bad spell. I feel it is even more than you claim."

Mayr's Wonderful Remedy gives permanent results for stomach, liver and intestinal ailments. Eat as much and whatever you like. No more distress after eating, pressure of gas in the stomach and around the heart. Get one bottle of your druggist now and try it on an absolute guarantee—if not satisfactory money will be returned.

THREE SHIPS SINK BENEATH RECORD VICTIM OF THE WAR

Aside From That, His Home In Hartlepool Is Destroyed by Germans.

William Gow, chief engineer of the Ropner freighter Dromonby of Hartlepool, will go down to posterity as the record breaking war victim. This is what has happened to him thus far:

October, 1914, chief engineer of the Ropner freighter Colby of Hartlepool; sunk by the German cruiser Kronprinz Wilhelm; taken as a prisoner of war to Newport News; released.

December, 1914, at his home in Hartlepool; his home destroyed by shell fire from the German cruisers during raid.

June, 1915, chief engineer of the Ropner freighter Gadsby of Hartlepool; sunk by German submarine U-39 in the week in which twenty-nine other freighters were torpedoed in the North sea; picked up by a trawler after being in the water six hours.

January, 1916, chief engineer of the Ropner freighter Dromonby of Hartlepool; sunk by German raider in the bay of Biscay; brought in the prize ship Appam to Newport News.

And now Mr. Gow is returning to Hartlepool to get a berth on some Ropner freighter still afloat.

ENEMY AIR MEN SHAKE HANDS.

Berlin Paper Describes Meeting After Capture of British Machine.

Two battle aeroplanes of the enemy, says the Lokalanzeiger of Berlin, tried to escape when fired on by German artillery, but only one succeeded in making off. A small German battle monoplane then appeared and attacked the remaining enemy machine at an altitude of 3,000 feet. After an exciting combat, in which both participants displayed equal bravery, the German, attacking from the front, forced his opponent to land. The German machine also landed, and its occupant rushed to the British aeroplane and shook hands with the British officers, who both were wounded, the pilot's injury being only a slight wound on the head, while the

NATIONAL PAY-UP WEEK FEB. 21-26 SEYMOUR

Our community has joined hands with thousands of other communities in the United States to increase the nation's prosperity and at the same time distribute it so that all will be benefitted.

We are all dependent upon each other. No one class can gain at the expense of all the others. The factories cannot run without market for their goods.

The employes cannot live without this market. The farmer can make no money if there is none to buy his surplus products. As the farmer prospers, all prosper. As the other commercial interests of the country prosper, the farmer prospers. We all must look to each other for our livings.

If we can turn into the channels of business the millions of dollars we all owe each other, so that we can again use these dollars to buy more things we need—every man who is supplying a need will prosper.

That is the object of NATIONAL PAY-UP WEEK, February 21 to 26.

YOU CAN HELP and you can be helped if you will pay up during this week. Let's all work together.

OUTPUT OF SHIPS LESSENER BY WAR

England's Yards Idle as Compared With Peace Times.

BUILDING SMALLER VESSELS

Number Increased, but Total Tonnage
Is Greatly Decreased—Government Controls Most of the Labor and Thus
the Individual Concerns Are Handicapped.

How seriously the war has affected
the shipbuilding industry of the world
is shown in the official statistics which have been supplied by the leading British shipbuilding firms. During the past year only 1,655 merchant vessels, representing a total of 1,671,610 tons, have been added to the mercantile marine of the world, as compared with 3,165 vessels of 3,484,171 tons during 1914.

While all the combatant nations have obviously suffered in the greatest degree, the United Kingdom has been the most seriously affected, for the figures
relating to British shipbuilding show that only 517 merchant vessels were built, representing a total tonnage of 649,336 tons, as against 1,294 vessels of 1,722,154 tons during the previous year.

Output in 1914 and 1915.

The following table, which has been compiled from statistics furnished by the leading shipbuilders, shows the total output of the world during 1915 and 1914:

	1915.	1914.
Ton- Ships. nage. Ships. nage.
United Kingdom..	517 649,336	1,294 1,722,154
British dominions.	133 32,937	271 67,994
Foreign combatant and noncombat- ant	955 989,337	1,600 1,694,023
Total	1,655 1,671,610	3,165 3,484,171

In the statistics relating to work
turned out by British yards, no figures are given of warships building. Were these figures included, it is probable that the output might have been larger than in any previous year, but the totals serve to demonstrate the amount of work which has been accomplished
in British yards. During the whole year ship owners have been deploring
the difficulties which have lain in the way of their obtaining delivery of vessels ordered before the war broke out,
and in many yards devoted entirely to war work new mercantile tonnage remains on the stocks and in the condition it was left months ago.

The Production in 1913.

During the year 1913 the total mercantile production of the United Kingdom was 1,424 vessels with an aggregate tonnage of 1,977,573, so that the output last year was less by 907 vessels and 1,328,237 tons.

The decrease in the British output
has been particularly heavy in Belfast,
where Harland & Wolff have for the first time in the history of the famous
firm launched no merchant vessel,
whereas in 1913 they launched six
steamers representing 156,047 tons.
Workman, Clark & Co. also did comparatively little mercantile work, for the total of the new tonnage which they turned out during the year was half a dozen with a total tonnage of 26,318, as against vessels representing 75,188 tons during the previous year.

It was early in the year that Workman, Clark & Co. completed their most important merchant steamers, the Pembroke, the Carnarvonshire and the Ebro, for the Royal Mail Steam Packet company. All three vessels were practically completed at the end of 1914, and there are specific reasons why the vessels should be finished this year.

At the end of March they launched
the first of a number of steamers which they have contracted to build for the United Fruit company of New York and Boston, the steamer San Mateo, a vessel of 3,370 tons. In May the steamer San Pablo was placed in the water, and this was followed in August by the steamer San Pedro.
These three boats are intended for the cargo trade only and are sister ships.
In October a fourth vessel for the same owners, but intended for the cargo and passenger carrying trade, was launched. Since October Workman, Clark & Co. have been engaged on work other than for the mercantile navies of the world.

Activities in Clyde Yards.

There has been great activity
throughout the whole year in Clyde yards, from which 126 vessels, representing in the aggregate 215,000 tons,
were launched. Many of the vessels,
however, were small ones, and whether
they increase the number of launches,
they do not add considerably to the total tonnage. Although the majority of the shipyards on the Clyde were taken over by the government shortly after the outbreak of the war, for a considerable time there was no suspension of mercantile work. There are still to be found on the Clyde several yards devoted in the main to the construction of small steamers of the coasting grade, which are not "controlled establishments," and for some months these yards were able to proceed without any difficulty with the contracts they had on hand.

It was only after the government decided upon a scheme for drawing all available labor to the "controlled yards" for war work that these firms
experienced any difficulty.

NEWSY PARAGRAPHS

A daughter was born this morning
to Mr. and Mrs. Harry W. Keefover, East Fifth street.

H. H. Carter, proprietor of the Carter Drug Store, is pleased with the results of the sale which he held last week. An invoice of the stock shows that he sold practically all
the goods that were shipped to him
for this sale. The record is very unusual and the proprietor is being complimented by the United Drug Company. The sale had several unusual features which attracted attention. He expects to make them
an annual affair in his store.

BRYAN MAY OPPOSE SECOND TERM PLAN

Former Secretary of State Expected
by Washington Correspondent
to Raise Opposition.

By United Press.

New York, February 15—"William Jennings Bryan—the man who made the nomination of Woodrow Wilson possible at Baltimore—will in all human probability oppose the renomination of the president at the Democratic national convention next June,"
said the Washington correspondent of the Evening Post in a copyrighted
article today.

"This is the fixed impression which the ex-secretary of state left on my mind after two long talks with him
recently." The article continued,
"He asked particularly that until the president formally announced his candidacy nothing be said of his views and even then he did not want to be restricted in any utterance in advance of the convention."

The Post correspondent stated,
however, that if the president is renominated Bryan will not vote for his election.
